As the earth awakens this spring, Crystal Clear Psychics wants to help you discover new dimensions of spiritual and psychic growth. Just like the trees and flowers, our spirits strive to blossom and grow during the month of April.

Psychic Gitte has a special message for you—and not necessarily in English! The ability to communicate in multiple languages has given her some amazing wisdom. Then we turn the spotlight on one of the world's most intriguing couples: Beyoncé and Jay Z. What's behind their epic love story?

Next, we explore the amazing power of flower essences. It's wonderful to appreciate the colour and fragrance of flowers; but tapping into their healing vibrations is even better! We discuss principles behind this ancient technology. Finally, we tackle the delicate (and rewarding!) subject of how to romance a Pisces. If you've ever been interested in a native of this sign, you'll want to know what our experts have to say.

Our psychic readers are passionate about helping you along your life path, and we hope your month is full of magic and insight. Thank you from the bottom of our hearts for making us the most respected psychic reading service in the USA!

Speaking your Language

Having lived in Luxembourg for 25 years (arriving when I was just 23 years old), I have a lot of experience with different cultures and languages, and how they affect the way we connect with other people.

Luxembourg has a population of 563,000 people, and 46% of those are foreigners. It's a city where many different nationalities live peacefully together. I am Danish by origin, and I love the international atmosphere. I love being able to speak several different languages with friends from all over the world.

In terms of psychic readings, I've learned a few important lessons. It's not enough to simply switch languages when I communicate with someone from another country. You have to tune into the temperament and specific characteristics not only of the individual, but of his or her nationality as well. Humour, for example, is an area where you have to be very careful. Some nationalities might love a certain type of humour, while others find it sarcastic and offensive to them—the very opposite of what you intended.

People from certain nationalities are quite passionate; it's easier for them to open up and allow their emotions to reign. Other nationalities are more logical or analytical in their relational style. There's also the question of similar words in different languages. For example, French and English have many words with the same or similar spellings; however, these are often 'false friends' with completely different meanings.

What does all of this mean? During a reading it's important for the client to feel at ease with the language as well as the reader. When the client feels confident and relaxed, they have easy access to the vocabulary needed express themselves. Since talking about our innermost feelings is already a challenge for most of us, being comfortable with the language in which the reading is given is essential. The client needs to feel safe enough to share very delicate emotional life issues with the reader. When language is no barrier, the energies in the reading flow freely and lead to better outcomes.

I have had many English language readings with clients who needed me to slow down and repeat things. Had we been communicating in their native tongue, or another of their preferred languages other than English, the experience would have been more insightful—not to mention a better value for the money!

An email reading, as opposed to a telephone reading, could be ideal for a client who needs more time with the guidance. When clients see their questions answered in writing, it's possible to study them carefully and look up words they might not understand. This way they can go at their own pace and have all the time they require in order to understand the advice being offered to them, and to assimilate the guidance and insights provided to them.

The goal of a good reader, whatever the medium or language of the reading, is immediately tuning into a particular client at a given moment in time. After all, each of us is absolutely special and unique!

BEYONCE & JAY Z

LOVE

IS POWERFUL

She was a hard-working Methodist from suburban Texas, singing and dancing in talent shows from an early age. He was a street kid from Brooklyn, his enormous talent nearly drowned out by dangerous living. Their early lives could hardly have been more different, yet their destinies merged with a force rarely seen in the world of entertainment. Now they're celebrating their 8th wedding anniversary, proud parents of a four year old daughter, and enjoying meteoric career success. Was it luck that brought Jay Z and Beyoncé together? Maybe. But it's hard to believe there isn't something magical here, especially when you consider the spiritual and astrological connections at work.

Beyoncé Knowles was born in Houston, Texas on 4th September, 1981. That makes her a Virgo in the Chinese Year of the Rooster. Shawn Carter (a.k.a. Jay Z) was born in Brooklyn on 4th December, 1969. That makes him a Sagittarius, also in the Year of Rooster.

The fact that Jay Z and Beyoncé are both Roosters is not all surprising when you consider the sheer amount of stage presence between them. Roosters are notoriously proud creatures; they love to compete, to be heard, to bask in the adoration of a crowd. Of course, these qualities are not enough on their own. The star quality of both entertainers is brought to fruition by other elements in their charts. Being a Virgo, Beyoncé admits to being extremely detail-oriented—a 'control freak', in her own words. She expects the absolute best of herself and everyone around her; and the reputation she cultivates (despite her status as a fashion icon and sex symbol) has undertones of innocence and honesty.

Likewise, Beyoncé's husband has the all the attitude you would expect of a Rooster hip hop mogul—yet Sagittarius gives him something more. This fiery sign is known for breaking with convention and exploring new territory, and these are exactly the qualities that make Jay Z stand out as an artist and businessman. Known for a wide spectrum of musical collaborations, and frequently seen at progressive indie performances in New York, Jay Z is known for pushing the envelope—not resting on his laurels. The ever-present drive to set new goals and reach new heights of success keeps his creative instincts running on all cylinders.

It's worth noting that Virgo and Sagittarius are strongly reflected in the respective backgrounds of these two stars. Virgo puts a prime on methodical work and climbing the ladder. This is the young Beyoncé, performing in talent shows and slowly making a name for herself in Texas and California. Sagittarius sees luck and chance as decisive factors. This is the young Jay Z, free-styling and rap-battling on the streets of Brooklyn, surviving dangerous situations, and striking a series of early business deals that led to his own record label and a critically-praised debut album.

Virgo and Sag are not typically considered one of the strongest relationship matches, but like any two signs, they can work wonders under the right circumstances. Jay's Sagittarian fire helps Beyoncé to be more open and spontaneous, to live in the moment and embrace life. In return, Beyoncé's Virgoan sensibilities keep Jay down to earth and nudge him toward a more practical outlook. The romantic and physical connection between her Mars (Leo) and his Venus (Sag), and well as his Mars (Aquarius) and her Venus (Libra). Jay's moon also sits atop Beyoncé's Jupiter—a very lucky aspect for the financial side of the partnership.

People are fascinated by this relationship not only because of the money and fame involved, but because it somehow seems to click on multiple levels. Indeed, the more you look at the depth of astrological synastry between these two, the stronger their connection appears to be. Beyoncé and Jay Z may have taken different paths to the top of the entertainment world, but as they celebrate another anniversary this April, their dynamic union seems to be the one thing that has taken them the farthest.

Horoscopes

Check out today's horoscopes at clearpsychics.com/horoscopes.html

Aries

A desire to assert more independence over your world is evoked by the New Moon. And it can be all sorts of limitations that you are keenest to break away from. This daring-do could also see you come face-to-face with a fascinating person, between the 10th and the 14th, one who you really like. But don't be too hasty to leave a tie that basically works well.

Cancer

Are you ready for some kind of change in your working or worldly affairs? If it's felt as if you've been involved in a situation with others who have kept altering your role or changing their mind, you may decide that you want to take your own grip. This can be particularly so if you feel taken advantage of. Friendly and social interactions beckon later on in April.

Taurus

You can find yourself incredibly restless this month, and may find it hard to pinpoint exactly why. Someone you were romantically entwined with in the past can also come back into your thinking or turn up in person. However, this is not a great month to mix business with pleasure. One friend can prove unreliable, especially around the Full Moon of the 22nd.

Leo

You could get the chance to head off on a surprise trip which can absolutely delight. This may involve a sporting event, concert or a city break. Whichever, it could turn out to be a lot of fun. However, your boredom threshold is going to be very low this month, so everyday stuff could lose its sparkle - so look to reinvigorate routines even professional ones.

Gemini

Sparkling, unusual and stimulating friends, can really grab your imagination this month. This can be a time of forging new associations or taking a completely different pathway in your long-term future. However, in contrast, relationships at work with a line manager or employer could be hard going, especially if they're not clear about what they want.

Virgo

You could find yourself particularly impulsive in April, and a big ticket item could tempt. Then again, you may find yourself selling something that you no longer use and bringing in some much needed extra money. Patience however, will be a virtue when it comes to home, family and emotional relationships, which can seem blurry and bogged down.

Libra

If a sense of uncertainty has been hanging over your relationships for some time, it can feel like here we go again. But actually, you really start to make some fundamental changes to the way you think and go about all sorts of involvements. It may mean that an unsatisfactory tie comes to a close. Physical vitality can also be low, so do pace yourself Libra.

Capricorn

You may find yourself thinking and talking about events from your past. Anything which has been buried away can come to the surface and become more active again in the here and now, and trust is going to be a delicate issue too. Changes at home can also occur. The latter part of April can be much more playful however, with new friends emerging.

Scorpio

You could find yourself thinking that a change of role or lifestyle could be just what you need this month. If spending money or risking capital on any kind of venture features in your thoughts, carefully scrutinise the details. You need to be doing things that bring you a sense of satisfaction. The Full Moon of the 22nd brings interesting feedback your way.

Aquarius

This can be a fantastic month for exchanging ideas, meeting new and vibrant people and imparting or learning new skills. What can be trickier is when money or your point of view or values fail to chime with some older friends or acquaintances. Be honest too with yourself about your motives in situations. Someone in your neighbourhood can become a key ally.

Sagittarius

This month has two major influences. The first can rejuvenate your love of new ideas and stimulating sociability. However, the second could distort reality around home, emotional and practical issues. It's going to be very important to ensure that while embracing your love of enjoyment and freedom you don't forget to nurture your support systems.

Pisces

If you are attending any meetings, interviews or presentations, carefully prepare beforehand. Also think outside of the box in terms of the types of questions you can be asked. This will help you to anticipate possibilities. Finances are boosted from the 6th, but so can your desire to enjoy all the good things in life. Contracts need care in the last ten days.

win a pisces heart

Every sign of the zodiac has doors that only special keys can unlock. Taurus, for example, plays by a different set of romantic rules than Sagittarius. Knowing the rules of the game can help you get a foot in the door. It can also teach you quite a bit about yourself, which is a huge aspect of any relationship!

Let's say a Pisces has caught your attention. Sparkling eyes, irresistible intelligence, fascinating depth. You've heard things about this sign. It's highly sensitive. It's highly psychic. What's your next move?

Mind Your Manners & Stay Calm

Crass, rude, abrupt, hurried—remove these concepts from your mind if you want to win a Pisces heart. This sign puts a prime on courtesy, grace, and attention to detail. If you give the waiter attitude on the first date, your stock will plunge. Pisceans see the world as an ocean in which everything is connected. In all stages of the relationship—but especially during the first stages—Pisceans will observe your level of respect for other beings, including animals. If you exhibit rude or disrespectful behaviour, those sparkling affections will slip through your grasp.

Likewise, don't let nerves get the best of you. Pisceans are sensitive to discordant psychic vibes and may be scared off by too much anxiety. Aim for a calm and centered mood. The fish will swim to you of its own accord.

Learn to Suspend Logic

If logical analysis is your modus operandi, you may have trouble getting a Pisces to like you. That's not to say there's no place for logic in the Pisces mind, but these are highly intuitive beings. To them, intelligence isn't all about wit. If you can't enjoy a few moments of thoughtful silence, Pisces won't think you're very intelligent at all. On the other hand, if you show a Pisces that you understand and appreciate the emotional side of intelligence, their interest in you will spike.

Frankly, your Pisces may say things that don't make much sense to you. Of course, you can't be expected to sugar coat how you feel; but Pisces does want you to be fundamentally supportive. Being a watery sign, Pisces is known for shifting and changing course. They don't always expect their partners to change course along with them, but they do need to be encouraged and supported. It's the only way they can feel safe in sharing who they are.

Be Old Fashioned and Take it Slow

If you're looking for something quick and casual, Pisces is probably your worst bet. The emotional depths of this sign can lead to profound intimacy—but this has to be earned. Trying to get physical too quickly will likely send your Pisces into retreat mode. This is a cautious, dip-your-toe-in-the-water kind of sign. Once intimacy does happen, you'll know how passionate Pisces can be. Until then, focus on the emotional connection. Express your interest in personality. Build a strong rapport. Don't pay lip service, either. Pisces has an acute psychic radar and can easily detect when words and thoughts are not aligned!

Old fashioned gestures are another big plus. Don't wear your bluetooth headset during dinner, or assume that the rules of dating have changed just because it's the 21st century. Pisces loves romantic gestures and unforgettable moments. By doing these things, you communicate your willingness to create a deep romantic connection.

What Next?

A Pisces heart is not easy to win, but it's well-worth the trouble. You'll feel truly special when a Pisces showers you with love and devotion, and you won't be disappointed in the bedroom, either. But just as you were challenged in winning your Pisces, there will be hurdles to clear once a relationship gets underway. Bouts of sadness or depression are not unusual with Pisces. Protecting yourself while showing support can be a tricky maneuver. The important thing is to be emotionally available and strike a balance between honesty and sensitivity. Do that, and the good times will get even better.

Healing Flower Essences

When you think of Springtime, flowers are probably one of the first things that come to mind. They pop up in yards, parks and tree-lined streets. The sudden explosion of colour and fragrance signifies the end of winter's dark sleep and the arrival of a new wakefulness, a fresh incarnation of life.

We've all used flowers to convey love, healing wishes, or gratitude for a departed loved one. They have the power to change moods, brighten rooms, and remind us of all that is beautiful in life. But flowers aren't just useful in an ornamental or sentimental way. Their ability to heal our minds and bodies goes deeper, into the realm of the psychic and spiritual. It may be difficult to believe, but flowers are truly powerful allies.

Anecdotal evidence suggests that flower essences have been used for centuries by people in China, India, Australia and many other parts of the globe. The first moderner to systematically use flower essences for healing was the English physician Edward Bach. Frustrated with the harsh effects of commonly prescribed medications—which by and large were used to treat symptoms—Bach left a successful medical practice in London in the early 1930s to focus on developing new treatments in the countryside. What he discovered (or perhaps rediscovered) was an effective way to capture the healing essence of flowers. By placing certain medicinal flowers in a bowl and allowing them to 'brew' in direct sunlight, the water was imbued with the vibrational essence of the flowers.

But the real discovery was the effect these essences had on patients. They didn't treat illness allopathically, or even homeopathically as many of the other remedies Bach was accustomed to prescribing. Flower essences acted on a deeper psychic level, where illness and negativity first came into being. Bach believed—as many medical and spiritual practitioners do today—that physical illness is rooted in mental and emotional states. By introducing the potent force of flower essences to act on these deeper states, patients were able to heal physical and psychological ailments from the inside out.

It may be awhile before science and physics are able to explain how flower essences work. In the meantime, let experience be your guide. Flower essences are now widely available, both from local herbalists and well-known international brands. To begin your journey with healing flower essences this Spring, consider the five incredible flower essences listed below, and the remarkable effects they're known to have.

STAR OF BETHLEHEM

A calming, divine presence that is particularly useful for healing and integrating traumatic episodes or shock.

LADY'S SLIPPER

Aligns words with actions, heightens mental integrity and boost the quality of our relationships.

LOTUS

Good for brushing away false perceptions that prevent the spirit from accessing its deeper healing powers.

WILD ROSE

A good remedy for malaise, melancholy and fatigue. Infuses daily life with fresh passion and positive energy.
